

Georgia Cancer Specialists Holding Educational Community Seminar On Breast Cancer Prevention At Ritz-Carlton Lodge, Reynolds Plantation

Dr. Cheryl Jones of GCS's Cowles Clinic office is featured speaker

September 14, 2005 (Lake Oconee) — Dr. Cheryl Jones, of the Georgia Cancer Specialists's (GCS) Lake Oconee office in Cowles Clinic, will be holding an educational community seminar on Thursday, October 6, from 2 – 4 p.m. at the Ritz-Carlton Lodge, Reynolds Plantation. The seminar, "Can You Prevent Breast Cancer?" is free and is specifically aimed at the Lake Oconee community. Dr. Jones will discuss the latest in breast cancer prevention and early detection.

"I am excited about the opportunity to speak with the Lake Oconee community about this very important topic and hope to see a lot of people at the Ritz," Dr. Jones said.

As part of Dr. Bob Cowles' mission to bring the best in healthcare to the Lake area, GCS moved into their new Cowles Clinic office in March, bringing their state-of-the-art cancer care with them. For the first time ever, chemotherapy is now available in Lake Oconee.

Refreshments will be provided at the event. For more information call the GCS Lake Oconee office at 706-454-0159.

Georgia Cancer Specialists is the largest private oncology/hematology practice in the Southeast and a leader in advanced cancer treatment and research. The practice offers community-based medical oncology and hematology services and is the first private oncology practice to also provide a full range of support services for patients in Georgia, including nutritional counseling, pain management, wellness counseling, and home health coordination. The GCS research department, whose focus is bringing targeted cancer therapy to communities, is the first in Georgia to offer Phase I clinical trials, the most novel cancer therapies available. GCS has 28 offices, 34 doctors, and over 430 support staff members located in the Greater Metropolitan Atlanta Area and Macon, and provides care through approximately 155,000 annual patient visits. Georgia Cancer Specialists can be found on the web at www.gacancer.com. GCS is The Cancer Answer™.